- Number of characters:
- Total figures:
- Photos:
- Tables:
- If it is an edited collection, how long is each contribution? Please include all text, including endnotes and bibliography.

Short description (no more than 150 words):

Purpose of writing this book

Please tell us the special contribution made by your work to the literature in its field. Define the major concerns and problems you address; state your solutions or findings and their implications. Please comment on methodology and sources. Tell us the compelling, unique features about your book.

Please list five keywords that best describe your book.

Indicative Table of Contents

If this is an edited volume, please include names and affiliations of contributors. We would like to see an introduction and sample chapter if available.

Please list those publications that your manuscript will be competing with. Please define in what your manuscript differs from these other publications.

Please provide a brief biographical sketch including places of education, honors received, memberships in professional societies, other publications, and current academic appointment, if any. (Indicate here if the proposed work is based on a PhD thesis.)

Please provide a selection of your relevant previous publications.

Review of the manuscript

Please suggest three names of subject area specialists whose comments would assist us in evaluating your proposal including full addresses and e-mail addresses. Do not include names of dissertation advisors, committee members, departmental colleagues, or those closely associated with you or your proposal. We may not choose them, but it will allow us to see where you would place your proposal.

Manuscript delivery date

What is the status of the project at the moment?

Have any portions of the proposed manuscript previously appeared in print? If so, please indicate the copyright status of the portion and what fees might be applicable (e.g., journal articles, book chapters, university repository).

What circumstances influenced you in deciding to submit your proposal to us (recommendations of colleagues, suitability to our list or to a series, geographical proximity, etc.)?

Open Access

Please see our www.openingthefuture.net project where we aim to raise funding for those titles where there are no funds behind the project from research funders of your parent institution. Please indicate here if you have any sources that may be available.

Have you contacted other publishers—if so, do please advise us.

Sales and Marketing

Why do you think we are the right publisher for your book?

Whom do you see as the primary and secondary audiences for this book?

Please be very specific, especially about course adoption potential (think about style, content, theoretical concepts and language etc.). Please indicate what level of reader you expect to read the book (e.g., student, post-graduate, specialist).

Unique Selling Points (distinctive features of the proposed book)

- 2.
- 3.

Bulk sale possibilities? We provide books to institutions in print or electronic form at discounts. For larger purchases we can create custom editions for customers to use as conference giveaways or internal use. Please list connections that might be interested in bulk purchases.

Books are available at author discounts. If you would like to purchase copies at publication, please specify an amount.

If your book has the potential for a college course, please provide a list of academic contacts in related courses that might adopt the book as a textbook or a supplementary reader.

Please let us have contacts at bloggers etc. that might put up a sample chapter or an “article” for a link or download.

Do you have email addresses that we could contact for your book? LinkedIn, Facebook or Twitter contacts? If so, how many of each?

Please provide any appropriate media contacts.

Would you like to recommend any other marketing opportunities?

Please feel free to attach any further information or documents that you feel are relevant to the proposal.
